

THE NATION MOURNS FOR MCKINLEY

DEEP SORROW ALL OVER THE WORLD

Final Step to the Tomb--Canton Weeps Bitterly--Stricken Widow Mourns Over Her Loved One.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS VIEW REMAINS

Sad Scenes Around the Bier at Canton, O.--Memorial Services Over the Dead Today Were Simple and Brief--Last Farewell Is Taken.

Canton, O., Sept. 19.—In his old home town over which hangs a pall of mourning never known in all its history before, the body of President McKinley was borne this afternoon through streets black with crepe and through lanes of sorrow stricken faces down which the tears were streaming with little effort made to conceal or restrain them, to the tomb.

Most impressive of services. Three funerals in all there have been, each distinct from the other, but none so impressive as the one that is now in progress. It is the family funeral of Sunday last over again, with the difference that this is as if all the people of a city of 40,000 inhabitants, from the old men down to the children, were the family and all were stricken with the family's own grief.

It is quite impossible with words to make one who does not see it understand the strange, solemn atmosphere of mourning which is here. The entire city seems a single house in which lies the dead, a house where crepe hangs upon the door and over which there is the hush of funeral solemnities.

City in Depths of Sorrow. Not a light or a frivolous word is to be heard, not a smiling face to be seen in the streets. Sadness and keen grief saturate the atmosphere up to the point where the tears alone seem to give relief. It is something once seen, to remember a life time.

Thousands See Dead Friend. All of yesterday afternoon upon a shrouded catafalque in the corridor of the courthouse lay all that is mortal of the man they loved. For more than seven hours a stream of men and women and children passed the bier. Four and five abreast the long line stretched away for block after block. When an attempt was made to close the doors, shortly before six o'clock last evening, the long column extended more than seven squares.

Sad as was the procession which bore the body to the court house, it could not compare with the infinite sadness of that almost endless line of broken-hearted people who streamed steadily through the corridors of the building from the time that the coffin was opened until it was taken home to the sorrowing widow at nightfall.

Step Softly Past the Bier. They stepped softly lest their footfalls wake their friend from his last long sleep. Tears came unbidden to wet the bier.

Perhaps it was the great change that had come upon the countenance which moved them more than the sight of the familiar features. The signs of discoloration which appeared upon the brow and cheeks yesterday at the state ceremonial in the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington had deepened. All but two of the lights of the chandelier above the head were extinguished in order that the change might appear less noticeable, but every one who viewed the remains today remarked the darkened features and the ghastly lips.

Casket Will Never Be Reopened. When the body was taken away thousands were still in line, and the committee in charge of the arrangements was appealed to to allow a further opportunity to view the remains this morning before they were taken to the church. But this had to be denied them as the casket will never be opened again.

Simple Services Arranged. The funeral services began this afternoon at 1:30 p. m. at the First Methodist Episcopal church, of which the martyred president was a communicant and trustee. They will be brief, by the expressed wish of the family.

The Rev. O. B. Milligan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in which President and Mrs. McKinley were married thirty years ago, made the opening prayer. Dr. John Hall of the Trinity Lutheran church made the first scriptural reading, and Dr. E. P. Herbruck of the Trinity Reform Church the second. Dr. C. E. Manchester, pastor of the late president's church, delivered the only address. A quartet sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and another quartet sang Cardinal Newman's hymn, "Lead Kindly Light."

Procession Will Be Imposing. An imposing procession consisting of many of the G. A. R. posts of the State, the National Guard of Ohio, details of regulars from all branches of the service, fraternal, social and civic organizations and representative of commercial bodies from all over the country, the governors of several states, with their staffs, members of the house and senate of the United States, and the Cabinet, and president of the United States will follow the remains to Westlawn cemetery, where they will be placed in a receiving vault, awaiting the time when they will be laid in the grave beside the two children who were buried years ago.

FUNERAL DAY COLD AND DAMP

Lowering Clouds Add to the Depression at Canton Today. Canton, September 19.—A cold, damp and gray funeral day dawned at Canton. Lowering clouds overcast the heavens and a chilling mist added to the depression which affected those who have come to perform the last offices for the martyred dead. All during the night and morning special trains, packed to suffocation, were arriving. The streets were soon packed until they became almost impassable.

Mrs. McKinley Failing. Abner McKinley said last night that Mrs. McKinley had failed perceptibly but there had been no collapse.

The body of the late lamented president was placed in its temporary sepulchre this afternoon, while thousands stood in Westlawn cemetery mourning for the nation's late chief, Roosevelt and his cabinet. Special honorary pall-bearers, local honorary pall-bearers and Troop A of Cleveland assembled at McKinley house at twelve thirty o'clock.

In a short time the casket was borne from the house and then to the First Methodist Episcopal church of which the late president was a member and trustee.

Mrs. McKinley was not at the funeral, her serious condition making it impossible for her to attend.

The church walls were hidden by flowers and crepe, and the services there simple.

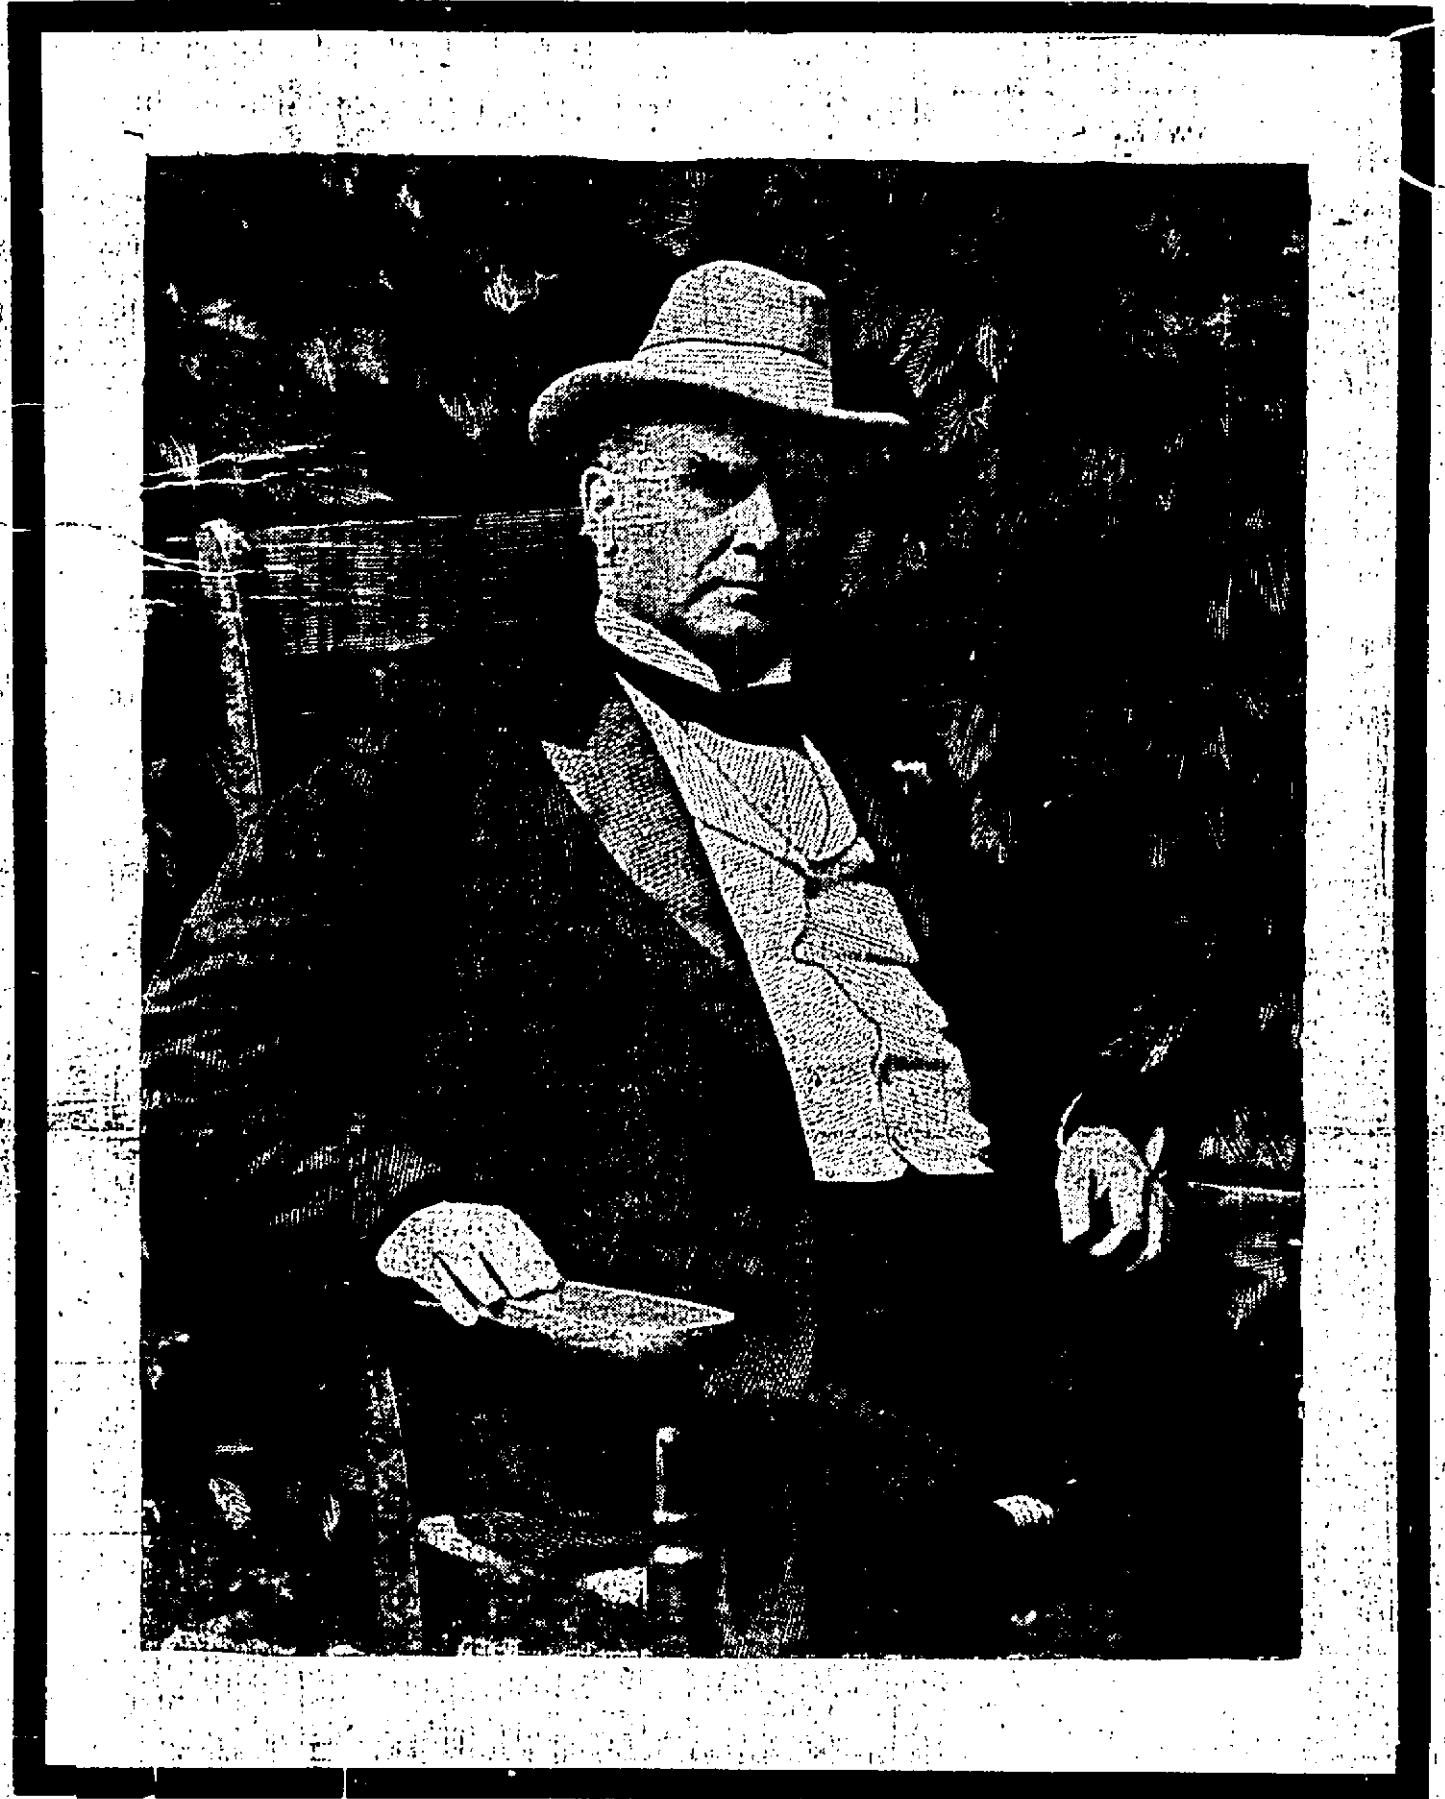

The face of the dead was not exposed to view, the marks of death being too plain. In the church were army comrades of McKinley, Roosevelt, state officers, cabinet members, several members of the diplomatic corps, senators and other high officials and residents of Canton who had been the president's life long friends and officials from neighboring states, and cities. The body was placed in a public vault, where it will remain until a permanent mausoleum can be provided.

Services in London. London, Sept. 19.—All of London is in mourning over the death of McKinley. Memorial services were held in Westminster Abbey. Over two thousand persons were present. Royalty was well represented.

Emperor Joseph Attends. Vienna, Sept. 19.—Memorial services for McKinley were held in the British embassy church here today and were attended by the emperor.

Observance in New York. New York, September 19.—New York has given itself up entirely today to observances in memory of McKinley. Services were held in every church in the city. Business is at a standstill.

Grand Tribute in Chicago. Chicago, September 19.—Chicago today is paying a remarkable tribute to the memory of McKinley. Never in the history of the city has there been such general suspension of business. Memorial exercises are being held in the schools and churches throughout the city this morning. This afternoon a great memorial procession marches through the down town streets.

JANESVILLE IS MOURNING TODAY; TRIBUTE TO WILLIAM MCKINLEY

Great Crowd Will Stand with Bared Heads and Swelling Hearts During the Moment of Silence--Grand Parade, and Exercises at Opera House.

To our martyred president, William McKinley this day belongs. For him it is consecrated. It is the laurel wreath of unbounded love and honor which America lays on the sepulchre of one of her greatest sons, the one great offering of the American people who lay aside their business, abandon their pleasures, forget even their cares that they may follow with their thoughts of sorrow the body to its grave. This one day out of millions of lives is devoted to the fallen leader. Nothing else can the people give, nothing greater could they give than this voluntary expression of universal sorrow and homage.

America becomes today, as never before, a country of one thought, every heart finding its center in the city of Canton, where with impressive ceremonies at half past two o'clock this afternoon the mortal body of William McKinley will be laid away from human sight forever.

The Hour of Silence. This sacred hour will be one of supreme honor, the honor of reverent silence when for a few moments men and women all over this vast country will pause in eloquent eulogy and stand with bared heads and swelling hearts in reverential silence while the body of President McKinley is being committed to the vault and the solemn words, "Dust unto dust" are still echoing at the grave.

Business Ceases Entirely. This afternoon all public business, save that on which the peace and welfare of the people each hour depends, there will be cessation. Today there has been no teaching in the public schools, the city's activities have been alone in its police and fire departments, which may never rest, while the postoffice, representing the federal government, closed at noon. In the stores this afternoon there are none to sell and none to buy. The wheels of industry are still. The factories and workshops wait idle under the lowered flags and behind the mourning black. Save for the lifted voices of the mourners in the pulpits, on the platform and in the homes, and for the solemn dirges and the slow tread of feet marching that here in this city also funeral honors may be done the city will be quiet until nature draws night's curtain upon this day of universal mourning.

Janesville in Mourning. Janesville has donned the garments of mourning, many new drapings of sorrow having been added this morning to those which have been in place ever since the president passed away. On some of the residence streets there is scarcely a house which is not shrouded in the colors which mean grief for the president who is dead and loyalty to the government which still lives. Many additional decorations were seen this morning in the business part of the city. Among the most effective decorations are those placed on the street cars. Broad panels of black, bordered with a narrow border of black and white twined together, extend the entire length of the car on either side and against this somber background two flags are crossed. The vestibules of the cars are also twined with black and white.

A Splendid Parade. Never before has there been a parade so representative of the civic life of Janesville as the one which is to move from the court house park shortly after 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. All of the prominent organizations of the city are to participate in the parade, all doing honor to the great man to whom this day is dedicated. Military, fraternal, civic and social organizations will keep step with the marching rank and file of men who stand for the industries of the city while every heart, whether under the handsome uniform of the Knights Templar or the common coat of the laboring man will beat the same sad requiem.

The Line of Parade. The line of march for the parade is west on Pleasant street to High street, north on High street to Milwaukee street and east on Milwaukee street to the Myers Grand opera house.

The Line of Parade. Hon. O. F. Nowlan is marshal of the day and his assistants are Chief of Police John W. Hogan, Sheriff R. J. Maltress, ex-Sheriff W. H. Appleby, Dr. Joe Whiting and C. Miltimore. Mounted on spirited horses, they are to take entire charge of the parade, arranging its formation, moving it promptly and leading it along the line of march. The formation of the parade is as follows:

G. A. R. Drum Corps.
W. H. Sergeant Post No. 20 G. A. R.
Co. I, Wisconsin National Guard.
Carriage with President of the Day and Speakers.
Carriages with Mayor and Common Council.
Knights Templar.
Imperial Band.
Independent Order of Odd Fellows.
Knights of Columbus.
Labor Organizations.
Janesville Dental Society.
Modern Woodmen of America.
Concordia Society.
Other Organizations.
Janesville Fire Department.
Citizens.

Exercises at Opera House. As soon as the parade is dismissed the doors of the opera house will be

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

B. T. Peckham and Wife, Pioneer Settlers of Rock County, Celebrate at Milton Junction.

On September 18 in 1851 at Delaware station, Ripley county, Indiana, Benjamin T. Peckham and Rebecca Ann Kelly were united in marriage. Yesterday their golden wedding was celebrated at Milton Junction.

Very unusual was the happy fact that seven children who were born to them were all present at the anniversary with sixteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

For fifteen years after their wedding Mr. and Mrs. Peckham resided in Indiana, and their first six children were born in the same house that their father was born and raised in.

Since 1866 Mr. and Mrs. Peckham have been residents of Wisconsin in Milton Junction and vicinity. A large number of friends were present from that village as well as from Stoughton and Edgerton.

The guests presented the couple with a fine chair and some gold spoons, the sons and sons-in-law presented a leather covered chair to their father and the daughters and daughters-in-law presented a silver tea set to their mother.

The children and their families who were present were as follows: Mrs. Alzora Bickley, husband and four children of Stoughton; Mrs. Velora Bevons, husband and two children of Johnston; Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Peckham, and three children of Barrington, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Purnell Peckham of Stoughton; Mrs. Florence Palmer and son of Hampton, Ia.; Mrs. Genevieve Usher, husband and two children of Avalon; Mrs. Clyde Price, husband and two children, of Wauwatosa, and the great grandchild, Rose Oviatt, and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Ben Oviatt of Stoughton.

PRESIDENT ADAMS RETURNED HOME

Head of the State University Sees a Bright Year Ahead for the School.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 19.—After eleven months absence in Europe, President and Mrs. Charles Kendall Adams returned to Madison on Saturday.

The president and his wife left Madison a year ago this coming October, in search of health. They have spent most of the time in Italy and Germany and President Adams returns in the best of health to take up his position at the head of the university. He looked in the best of spirits and in the best of health.

As he expressed it, "I am ready to take the saddle or bridge, and command on water or land, whichever way you wish to put it."

President Adams comes back after his trip, with added laurels, having been made an LL. D. by the University of Edinburgh, at the 350 anniversary. He went in search of health, and returns looking as though he had found the mythical spring of Ponce de Leon and bathed therein.

In speaking of the university and its prospects he said:

"I only know what has been written to me. From that I should judge that the engineering department will have the largest increase. The new buildings and modern and complete equipments place it on a level with the best in the land. Of course the other departments will increase also. I should judge there will be several hundred more students this coming year than we had last."

"President Hoffield will take Prof. Rosenstengel's place in German department. With Prof. Rosenstengel's death we lost an able teacher, but we gain one in Prof. Hoffield, whom I have known for some time and admire. Just who will take Prof. Wood's place in the physics department I cannot say. His going to John Hopkins was a great loss to Wisconsin, but a gain to him and John Hopkins. He is an able man and can now devote more of his time to research and experiments and less to teaching."

VOTES TO DROP WORD EPISCOPAL

Diocesan Council Recorded as Favoring the Name of the American Catholic Church.

Milwaukee, Sept. 19.—The fifty-fifth diocesan council of the Episcopal church in the Milwaukee jurisdiction adjourned yesterday afternoon after a measure of vital importance had been discussed spiritedly and at length.

The interesting measure was that of the proposed memorial to the general conference of the Episcopal church suggesting the change in the name of the church to the American Catholic church of the United States.

When the question came on the proposition to adopt, there were some sensational statements made by the opposition, but after Bishop Nicholson had assured the members that it would not be binding on those who represented the diocese at the general conference objection was withdrawn, and it was adopted. One clergyman said the name would look "suspicious" and another said the action appeared to him un-American, while those favoring it said it was proper that designation of the church must be in accord with its true character—Catholic.

The Rev. Arthur H. Barrington opposed the adoption of the memorial. Play for Valentine's Medal. Only four young ladies took part in the qualifying round for the Valentine medal at the Mississippi links Tuesday afternoon. The cold stormy weather prevented several who would otherwise have joined in the contest from going out to the grounds. The scores made by the players were Elizabeth Schlicker, 72; Belle McLean, 85; Helen Fifeled, 84; Catherine Fifeled, 79. The first round of match play will take place next Tuesday.

FISHER EXPLAINS FOOTBALL MIX-UP

Says He Signed a Contract with Prof. Staggs for a Series of Games for Five Years.

A reporter for the Gazette called on John L. Fisher, formerly graduate manager of the university of Wisconsin football team, this morning, and in an interview with him regarding the article in Wednesday's Chicago Record-Herald and other papers wherein Manager Charles Baird of the University of Michigan in a written statement accuses Mr. Fisher of destroying a Wisconsin-Illinois contract and of making a secret agreement with the university of Chicago whereby the University of Wisconsin and the University of Chicago were to play football for five years, Mr. Fisher said:

"I did sign a contract with Prof. A. Staggs of the University of Chicago for a series of games covering five years, and I am glad that I made the contract. Wisconsin never had a big Thanksgiving day football game before I became manager, and now by our contract we can play Chicago in on Thanksgiving day for a period of four more years. The coming game to be played in Chicago on November 28th is the first of that series. Manager Baird was also negotiating for the same series, but as he was so disagreeable and such a poor manager, Prof. Staggs preferred to play Wisconsin. Wisconsin made no contract with Chicago until President Adams notified President Angell of Michigan and President Draper of Illinois that we intended to do so. Whatever arrangements I made were approved by the athletic council at Madison and were made in the presence of a prominent professor of the University of Wisconsin, who was present at the time Prof. Staggs and I signed the contract and who approved of it as much as I did."

"Regarding Manager Baird's statement that I took a Wisconsin-Illinois contract while in Milwaukee, I will say that that statement is false. There were other Wisconsin men at that meeting besides myself, and they know the facts as well as I, and I am sure will bear me out in this statement. Manager Baird is simply trying to square himself with the Michigan students and alumni, who are sore at him for allowing Wisconsin's manager to out-general him, and who are at the present time, I am told, demanding his removal."

INSANITY WILL BE ASSASSIN'S PLEA

There Will Be No Legal Delays in the Trial Beginning on Monday Next.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Both lawyers assigned by Judge Emory to defend Leon F. Czolgosz, the assassin of the late president, have conserved reluctantly to undertake the task. Attorney Robert C. Titus yielded when urged by a score of telegrams sent to him at Milwaukee, and has wired to Loran L. Lewis that he will return to Buffalo on Friday to confer with him on the line of defense.

Attorney Lewis was asked today if he would demur to the indictment. "I have scanned the indictment and find that it is proper form and unassailable," he answered. "There will therefore be no demurrer."

He further said that no plans for the defense had been developed. The assassin declines to hold conversation with Judge Lewis, so no course has been suggested by the prisoner. In asking for permission to have the prisoner examined by experts in insanity than those employed by the District Attorney, Attorney Lewis indicated that possibly the defense will be insanity. That appears to be the only available defense.

The acceptance of the assignment by Attorneys Lewis and Titus makes certain a speedy trial for the assassin. While on the bench both men were known for the expeditious conduct of a trial and while they will secure all his rights for the assassin there will be no time wasted in superfluous oratory or cross-examination.

"With these men as counsel for Czolgosz," said President Moot of the Bar association today, "the world will witness a trial which every man may endorse—justice with becoming dignity and justice without prejudice or pity."

"No red tape will be stretched across the assassin's path to the electric chair," said District Attorney Penney today. "He will be an example of summary justice."

Meanwhile the assassin's appetite continues to be glutinous and he sleeps long and well. His unsatisfied craving is for tobacco. He calls for cigars every time he sees a jailer, but he does not get them. Three times a day he devours a meal of beef, potatoes, bread and tea, and never leaves a crumb to be carried away. He lies on a cot the most of the time.

And eating is simply perfunctory—done because it must be.

This is the common complaint of the dyspeptic.

If eating sparingly would cure dyspepsia, few would suffer from it long.

The only way to cure dyspepsia, which is difficult digestion, is to give vigor and tone to the stomach and the whole digestive system.

THE DEAD PRESIDENT.

Estimates by Wisconsin Papers of the Character of Wm. McKinley. Chippewa Falls Herald: A man beloved of millions, a pillar of mankind in the eyes of the whole world, has been taken from the world and the world loses much by his death.

Racine Journal: Fare thee well, William McKinley. From the other shore the chords of memory and of love will ever stretch untingling in loving remembrance millions of your countrymen.

Friend du Lac Commonwealth: President McKinley represented the highest type of American manhood, the broadest type of statesmanship and the loftiest idea of the official, the loyal servant of the people.

Appleton Crescent: William McKinley was an honest man, both to his country and to his God. In his death we may well regard the future with feelings of apprehensiveness, though mingled with hope for the best.

Chippewa Falls Independent: His civic ability and private virtues added luster to the office which he held. The American character was honored by his life. In purity of mind and purpose he stands next to the immortal Lincoln.

La Crosse Republican and Leader: No word of eulogy can add to the name of fame of McKinley today. The record of his life is written, not in lines of valorous deeds, but in the simplicity of the hearts of the American people.

Appleton Post: As a statesman he exemplified the ideal, even in the minds of his opponents, and when their unstained respect, admiration and love, if not their approval. And in every other relation of life he did his perfect duty and esteemed it a privilege.

Superior Telegram: But it is all over; his life work is ended. It was well done. To this a grateful nation will ever testify. He has carved for himself a niche in the temple of time and his name will ever be in the minds of a loving people.

The Milwaukee Sentinel has compiled the following editorial expressions of sympathy from the state press:

Superior Wave: One of the noblest and best presidents ever at the head of this great nation has gone to his final rest.

Madison Journal: The story of his life is a monument—each stone carefully laid one upon the other. There is great sorrow for a good man. The nation is submerged in grief. Every American feels that a great man has passed from earth, a noble soul passed to heaven.

Marquette Eagle: Kindly and generous in his disposition, never vindictive in his associations, generous to a fault, William McKinley held the respect and even personal sympathy of his strongest political opponents, while his political friends and near associates idolized him.

Eau Claire Telegram: The loss seems irreparable; the blow inflicted upon the country is crushing in its severity, but in the lofty example of illustrious life-record of the departed president, our statesmen and nation possess a rich and imperishable legacy which will be treasured with the most splendid heritages of our national life.

Sheboygan Journal: He was, indeed, the personification of the ideal of American manhood. His life was blameless. As a soldier he achieved honor and distinction. In his capacity as a lawyer he commanded respect, and in the field of politics the success of his attainments will illumine the pages of the nation's history.

Baraboo News: The president is dead. What a flood of sadness and sorrow is conveyed to a stricken nation by the simple statement. Anarchy, like a venomous serpent, has struck its first vicious blow in this country, and as a result anarchy must die. In the future, utterances that look to the destruction of our government must be declared treason and then there will be no more murdered presidents.

Portage Register: We have no words to express the grief we feel over his death. To recite the virtues of the man whose whole life has been an example of the highest manhood; to remember his kindly deeds; to tell of his statesmanship is what remains to be done and these things are already written in the hearts and minds of the people. It is as though every one of us had lost some one near and dear to us.

Racine Times: All recognize the noble qualities of heart and mind which distinguished William McKinley throughout his long career in public life, and while many differed with him on questions none failed to recognize his sterling worth as a man and citizen. It can be truly said of him as it was of Madison, "if his soul could be turned in side out, it would be found spotless and without blemish."

Oshkosh Northwestern: Those who reflect must realize that President McKinley was a martyr to the nation no less than as though he had given his life in battle. He died because he was the president. As a plain citizen he would not have been the object of the dastardly assassin's aim. His wisdom, kindness, and tolerance were acknowledged even by those who were engaged to him. His death is a national calamity beyond repair.

Kenosha News: Irrespective of party, politics or creeds, William McKinley was undoubtedly the most popular president the country has seen since the days of Lincoln. This feeling of love and affection was founded upon the personal characteristics of the man. He was one of the common people, of whom Lincoln was the first representative to fill the presidential chair. Loving, genial, kind-hearted and whole-souled, he had endeared himself in the hearts of the people, and on them the loss falls with the force of a personal blow.

Green Bay Gazette: William McKinley's death ends the earthly existence of a man whose life will always remain a guiding star to those who wish to live uprightly, to those who would cultivate a spirit of true patriotism, to those that would wish to learn how to live for their fellow man and not for self alone. His life will teach virtue as a dominant influence in this world; it will demonstrate to all future generations the power which an honest man of high purposes can exercise over a great nation. It will prove that, after all, the pure in heart are the greatest characters of this world.

Wausau Record: His uniform courtesy to all with whom he came in contact, his devotion to his invalid wife, his nobility of character both as a citizen and in his home life, high aspirations, unceasing effort for his country's welfare, and his other splendid traits, unfolded to the public within the past few years had endeared him as a man to the American people, and today they mourn both the man and the president. Their loss is a double one. His name will pass into history as that of one of the greatest statesmen of our country and will rank with those of Washington and Lincoln and others who have added luster to our nation's fame.

WOMEN WITH SET NOTIONS. They Make the Lives of Those Around Them Miserable. Some women never change—they never want to change either their ways of thinking or of doing things. No amount of reasoning or of demonstrating modern methods will appeal to them. In fact, half the time they don't take the trouble to listen at all, secure in the belief that old ways are the best and that what their mothers and grandmothers did is good enough for them. Fortunately, this type of woman is getting rarer now that the sex in general is beginning to realize that conservatism is the chief stumbling block to its advancement. Still, there are enough of the staid type left to cause considerable annoyance to those compelled to live with them.

If these women were to confine their notions to their own selves, all might be well; but, no—all beneath their roof must conform or take the consequences! There are set rules and ways for everything. If Bridget is dusting the parlor moves the chairs before she does the tables and ornaments, there is an immediate outcry from the woman with set notions, who is watching, enviously, for just such an occurrence. What if the room can be cleaned just as well that way? It makes no difference. Her former servants have always done it her way, and she isn't going to change now. It is the same with everything. She goes into the laundry, the kitchen and even the cellar to see if things are being done "right."

The woman with set notions makes herself odd and wrinkled before her time. She is always so busy looking out that people don't busy her many rules and regulations that she has no time to read, to broaden her mind or, indeed, to give herself any of the comforts of life. To her neighbors who express the fear that they will wear herself out she takes a melancholy satisfaction in shaking her head and replying, "Goodness knows how they'll manage things when I'm gone!" But the members of her family speak differently. They murmur among themselves, "Oh, if mother were not so set in her notions, how much easier it would be for her and for us!"

There is a nice little motto which the woman with set notions ought to hang up in her house in a conspicuous place—"There Never Was Such a Good Thing as a Better." As an afterthought might come the suggestion, "Perhaps somebody else has the better way."

Soldiers' Beds Described.

During the civil war the captain of a company of Tennessee mountaineers who were in the federal service ran across an old acquaintance. He urged him to enlist in the United States army, but the mountain dweller shook his head doubtfully. Finally he said: "I don't like the beds you give fellows to sleep in in the army. They ain't no place to throw your boots under them." This was the long way in which the mountaineer took to tell his friend that he did not like to sleep on the ground.

A Wife Says:

"We have four children. With the first three I suffered almost unbearable pains from 12 to 14 hours, and had to be placed under the influence of chloroform. I used three bottles of Mother's Friend before our last child came, which is a strong, fat and healthy boy, doing my housework up to within two hours of birth, and suffered but a few hours' labor. This liniment is the grandest remedy ever made."

Mother's Friend

will do for every woman what it did for the Minnesota mother who writes the above letter. Not to use it during pregnancy is a mistake to be paid for in pain and suffering. Mother's Friend equips the patient with a strong body and clear intellect, which in turn are imparted to the child. It relaxes the muscles and allows them to expand. It relieves morning sickness and nervousness. It puts all the organs concerned in perfect condition for the final hour, so that the actual labor is short and practically painless. Danger of rising or hard breaths is altogether avoided, and recovery is merely a matter of a few days.

Druggists sell Mother's Friend for $1 a bottle. The Bradford Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga. Send for our free illustrated book.

NEBRASKA FUSIONISTS WIN

Democrats and Populists Unite—Former Head the Ticket

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 19.—Fusion between the Democratic and Populist parties of Nebraska was effected by their state conventions held here. As a result of the agreement the democrats are given the head of the ticket, Supreme Court Justice, and the two regents of the university to go to the populists.

Both conventions were well attended, but the populist proceedings were apathetic compared with those at previous state gatherings. The democrats on the other hand, showed more of their old vigor. Absolute faith in the leadership of W. J. Bryan marked the speeches and resolutions, and the mention of his name was the signal for hearty applause. Hostility was declared to reorganization of the party on any line different from the present.

The most costly kitchen belongs to the Spanish court, the cooking utensils alone having a value of nearly $75,000, and are of a great age. The kitchen of the shah of Persia is, however, the most valuable in the world. Even the cooking pots are lined with gold and the plates and dishes used at the royal table are of solid gold, encrusted with precious stones. If it were possible for the contents of the shah's kitchen to be put up at auction they would realize over $5,000,000.

Temperature of the Sun.

Prof. Schellner of Potsdam has recently studied the question of the temperature of the sun and quotes the determinations by different observers by differing methods. WEE FOLKS BAND ENJOY A PARTY

The children of the Wee Folks band and their mothers enjoyed a delightful afternoon at the Congregational church parlors yesterday and it is difficult to say which find most pleasure in this organization of the little people, the members themselves or their mothers. Many of the members are babies in arms and at times the program was added to by a chorus of crowings and babyish exchange of courtesies. But this is a part of the Wee Folks band proceedings and every one enjoyed it.

Older children belong to the band also and they joined in the singing of songs and in the repeating of the Lord's prayer with Mrs. R. C. Denison who is their leader. Mrs. Denison also gave them a brief talk, explaining the missionary work so that even the little tots could understand it. She then introduced Mrs. A. J. Hutton, state superintendent of the children's work. Mrs. Hutton has a delightful way of talking to children and she told them many curious things about the Chinese, Japanese, Hindoo and African little folks to whom the pennies which the American children put in their barrels go, to make them happier.

After the short program the little folks marched into another room where three long tables, two very low and the other higher, were prettily spread and decorated with nasturtiums. Chocolate, sandwiches, fancy cakes and candies in paper baskets were served, the little folks being the guests of Mrs. R. C. Denison and Mrs. F. A. Capelle at supper.

The pennies in the little barrels amounted to $19.85 and two of the barrels came as thank offerings from little ones who had passed over death's river during the past year, Evelyn Louise Brunson and Henry Waite Dedrick. Seven new members joined the Wee Folks' band yesterday, they being Helen Green, Bessie Buell, Helen Souhlman, John Allen Taylor, Gladys Crall, Phyllis Spooner and Barlow Spooner.

GRIEF EXPRESSED AT ST. PATRICK'S

Special High Mass Was Celebrated at Nine O'clock This Morning by Rev. Father McGinnity.

Members of St. Patrick's church joined in the universal expression of sorrow heard all over the country this day because of the death of President McKinley; and this morning at nine o'clock special high mass was celebrated. About three hundred members of the church gave evidence of the great grief which today unites Catholics and Protestants in the bond of a common sorrow and sympathy by attending this impressive service of the church. Dean E. M. McGinnity was the celebrant and singing by the Sisters' choir added to the beauty of the solemn service.

In many of the Catholic churches of the country mass was celebrated this morning and from all these churches united prayer went up for the future welfare, peace and prosperity of the country. The letter requesting Dean McGinnity to hold such a service came from Archbishop Katzer of Milwaukee.

THE NURSERY.

Some Novel Ways in Which It Can Be Furnished.

Of course every fond mother tries to have the nursery one of the most attractive rooms in the house. This is easy with the exercise of a little taste and individuality. In the first place the room chosen should be naturally bright and attractive, with plenty of sunlight streaming through crisp white curtains. The woodwork in such a room is pretty when painted white and the walls tinted a pale blue. A charming blue and white nursery I recently saw had its walls ornamented with a wide frieze of sea gulls and other aquatic birds flying over a rough expanse of blue waves. The walls were hung with marine lithographs inclosed in plain white wood frames. Running along three sides of this room were low white cupboards, which contained the children's toys and books. A blue and white Japanese rug and blue denim cushions on the chairs further carried out the color scheme.

From an English home comes the nursery illustrated. The woodwork of the room is oak stained a dull green, and the walls are a warm gray in tone. The furniture is designed after the quaint old English style. It is green ornamented with red mottoes in ancient lettering. The walls are paneled with a series of amusing paintings. One sets forth the contents of Noah's ark, the animals marching two by two. On another wall is a representation of Mother Duck and her family, while the opposite side shows Mother Hen and her brood. There are a toy cupboard, with a shelf above for books, a broad, low table, on which rests an assortment of picture books, and a window seat upholstered in red.

Nowadays all the leading interior decorators keep a special line of nursery wall papers. Some of these are in tiled effects, each square showing a scene from some fairy tale. Others illustrate Mother Goose rhymes, while there are other charming friezes.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Great Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a great favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of small children for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Painted Kruger's Portrait.
Shortly after the arrival of Kruger in Holland his admirers were anxious to have his portrait painted, but he refused on the ground that he had no time. Finally, however, Miss Therese Schwarze succeeded in persuading him to sit. He chose the morning hours from 7 to 9, and she painted him reading a bible, which she brought to the sitting for that purpose. He was pleased with her suggestion and afterward accepted the bible as a present. The portrait was painted at Utrecht.

Origin of Little Fashions.
The handkerchief, it is said, acted a very inconspicuous part in the lady's dress antecedent until the Empress Josephine, whose teeth were prominent, used it as a modifying influence in smiling. Alexander the Great had a slightly crooked neck, and it suddenly became a fashion at his court for everybody to wear the head one side. Dozens of fashions in garb and conduct have had like origins.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Holloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by King's pharmacy and People's Drug Co.

The Last of an Army.

The most dramatic of single-man escapes was that of Dr. Brydone, immortalized by Lady Butler's picture, "The Last of an Army." The catastrophe occurred in Afghanistan, during the troublous times of 1841-42. A mixed British and native force of some 16,000 men (including camp-followers) left Kabul for Jellalabad in the depth of winter, but were surrounded by the tribesmen in the Khyber Pass, and cut to pieces, the gallant doctor alone surviving to tell the tale.—Tit-Bits.

World's Largest Grapevine.

North Carolina can boast the largest grapevine in the world. It is on the farm of B. F. Meekins, Roanoke Island, and not far from the site of Fort Raleigh, and near the birthplace of Virginia Dare. It is claimed that the vine was planted by Sir Walter Raleigh's ill-fated colony in 1587. It is of the Scuppernon variety, covers an acre of ground and yields about a ton of grapes annually.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suppose a large number of people who read of my remarkable cure will hardly believe it; had I not experienced it myself, I know that I should not.

MRS. SADIE E. KOCH.

"I suffered for months with troubles peculiar to women which gradually broke down my health and my very life. I was nearly insane with pain at times, and no human skill I consulted in Milwaukee could bring me relief.

"My attention was called to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; the first bottle brought relief, and the second bottle an absolute cure. I could not believe it myself, and felt sure it was only temporary, but blessed fact, I have now been well for a year, enjoy the best of health, and cannot in words express my gratitude. Sincerely yours, SADIE E. KOCH, 124 10th St., Milwaukee, Wis."—$5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women.

"I am an old soldier," writes Mr. Geo. Watson, of Newton, Ia., "and I have been a great sufferer from nervousness, vertigo and spinal trouble. MCKINLEY'S FOES MOBBED

St. Paul Residents Drive a Preacher Away.

SEEK TO LYNCH THE MAN.

It is alleged that he upheld the Anarchist—Czolgosz—Sympathizers Sent to Prison in New York—New Jersey After Anarchists.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 19.—Rev. Albert Dahlquist barely escaped being lynched by a howling mob of about 1,000 persons who demanded that he be hanged. Dahlquist is alleged to have made a speech in Minneapolis a few days ago in which he referred to the assassination of President McKinley as "a noble deed." The man is an itinerant preacher and has been holding meetings on Payne avenue in a district largely inhabited by Scandinavians. Many of these persons had heard of his Minneapolis speech and when he appeared at the hall to preach a crowd of over 1,000 had assembled. As soon as Dahlquist appeared a rush was made for him and threats of hanging and other ill treatment were made on all sides. He had anticipated trouble, however, and a squad of policemen acted as a bodyguard. They had great difficulty in protecting the man and at last he broke away, jumped out of the window and ran down the street with the mob at his heels. Dahlquist outfooted his pursuers, however, and escaped.

Abuse McKinley, Go to Jail. New York, Sept. 19.—At the Essex market police court a man in the crowd of spectators openly sneered at the badge of mourning which the police magistrate wore around his coat sleeve out of respect for the late president. Two minutes later the stranger was on his way to Blackwell's island to do a sixty-day sentence for "giving him time to reflect over the next insult he might offer to the memory of Mr. McKinley," as the magistrate put the case. Alfred Danschaal, a Dane, aged 52 years, was sent to jail at Plainfield, N. J., for sixty days in default of a fine of $60 imposed for abusive language directed against the late President McKinley.

"Reds" Threaten a Governor. Trenton, N. J., Sept. 19.—Governor Voorhees has received a postal card postmarked Hoboken, N. J., which read as follows: "You want to keep quiet and keep your detectives away from here or you will get what McKinley got. We are looking for your kind." The card bore no signature. It is thought that it came from anarchists.

War Against Anarchists. Newark, N. J., Sept. 19.—The war of extermination against anarchists in Newark, which has been instituted by the police and the grand jury, was continued by the executive board, which, on complaint of a police captain, voted to reject the application for a saloon license made by the men charged with harboring the anarchists, Zolkowsky and Cesco, who were arrested Saturday night in the saloon while drinking a toast to the health of Emma Goldman and Czolgosz and commending the assassination of the president. The board also adopted a resolution to the effect that any saloonkeeper possessing a license who shall be charged by the police with permitting anarchists to assemble in his place of business and make demonstrations against the government or the good order of the community shall suffer the revocation of his license and shall not again receive a license.

Mob Compels an Apology. Stanberry, Mo., Sept. 19.—A mob captured Perry Marsh, who had said that he wished President McKinley would die, and, taking him to the city park, threatened to lynch him. Marsh apologized humbly, his apology was accepted by vote and the crowd dispersed. Marsh, who is a laboring man, left town.

EXPECT ACTION BY ANARCHISTS.

Secret Service Men Believe There Will Be a General Banding.

Washington, Sept. 19.—A general banding together of the anarchists of the country is expected by the Washington police and the secret service. It is not improbable that co-operation of all anarchists in the east and west has become an accomplished fact.

Signs of activity are manifest to the police here. Ever since the assassination of the president and rumors of plots against President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna there has been tremendous energy expended in the safeguarding of officials. In some cases it is known to the officials. In the case of the president, while he is guarded, very little display is made of that fact. Neither the secret service nor the police will take any chances.

Talking the general situation over, Major Sylvester, Washington's superintendent of police, said last night: "The presumption is, of course, that the Czolgosz affair has made a deep impression on people of his stripe and they are active and will be so until it is demonstrated to them that their plans will always be circumvented, I am confident that the arrangements yesterday by the police forestalled any contemplated attempt against the life of any person in the parade."

Escapes Coat of Tar.

Falmouth, Mass., Sept. 19.—Michael Conroy, coachman for Richard Olney, is a fugitive, not from justice, but from the wrath of 200 residents, a vigilance committee, which scoured the country about here, prepared to treat him to a coat of tar and feathers. Conroy has been in the employ of Richard Olney for a number of years. A few days after the attack upon the president he is alleged to have said that "it was good enough for the president and that he ought to have been killed long ago." The remarks caused great indignation among the townspeople, which was heightened upon the death of the president. Mr. Olney was seen by a committee and told of his coachman's remarks. Conroy, when questioned by his employer, denied that he said it.

May Extradite Emma Goldman. Washington, Sept. 19.—After the funeral Gov. Yates returned to the Arlington hotel and there had a long talk with Mr. Milburn, who was the host at Buffalo of the dead president.

While at Buffalo Gov. Yates expressed the opinion that Emma Goldman ought to be extradited on a conspiracy charge, and he talked with Gov. Odell of New York about it.

Mr. Milburn is one of the most noted criminal lawyers of Buffalo and is competent to pass on such a case, and the fact that he believes that Miss Goldman may be brought to Buffalo for trial may influence the governor's decision. The latter declined to say what was the result of their interview.

CZAR REVIEWS FLEET.

Grand Military and Naval Scene at Dunkirk, France.

Dunkirk, France, Sept. 19.—In honor of the visit of the Czar the streets of Dunkirk echoed with the measured tramp of infantry marching before 5 o'clock to take up a position in the cordon thrown around the section of the docks where the presidential vessel, the torpedo gunboat Cassini, was lying, and along the lines from the prefecture, in which President Loubet stayed over night, to the side of the dock. The weather cleared considerably today, and by 7 o'clock, the hour fixed for President Loubet's embarkation, the sun was shining. The wind was high, however, and decidedly cool. People of Dunkirk saw absolutely nothing of the Czar, as the ceremonies took place behind an impenetrable wall of soldiery, and the Czar, in company with President Loubet, entered the train at the docks. After dining at the Chamber of Commerce they left for Compiègne without even traversing the streets of Dunkirk. These arrangements were a source of keen disappointment to Dunkirk citizens, who, having lavishly decorated their town, hoped the Czar would drive through some of the main streets to the railroad station instead of going on board the train beside the docks. At ten o'clock the Cassini, which had proceeded to the three-mile limit to escort the Standart, the Czar's yacht, into French waters, returned to the roadstead accompanied by the Czar's yacht and the Russian cruiser.
